School Teacher-turned-Aboriginal Comedy Hypnotist Amazes Audiences Everywhere

Victoria, BC

You may have seen Hypnotist Scott Ward on APTN, City TV, CTV, CBC. He is also a regular visitor to First Nations across Canada and Aboriginal events everywhere. He was a teacher before finding his passion as a certified hypnotherapist and stage performer and it was then he decided to switch careers. He calls it the “best choice I ever made”. And without a doubt, he has become very successful, with booking offices now in Victoria, BC, and Las Vegas, Nevada to cater to his numerous clients.

Now, chances are good that we have all seen a hypnotist perform live at some time or other. However, one has to witness Scott Ward in action to really gain a new and exciting appreciation for what a hypnotist does on stage. His performance puts a refreshing spin on hypnosis shows; peppered with comedy routines and his ability to convince even the most skeptical audience.

He has been touring Canada and the USA since 2005, performing at all events – big and small. And at each performance, audiences walk away amazed and empowered as he not only brings a ton of laughs, but also uses his abilities to enhance the quality of life of his participants through positive suggestion.

Encyclopedia Britannica defines Hypnosis as "a special psychological state with certain physiological attributes, resembling sleep only superficially and marked by a functioning of the individual at a level of awareness other than the ordinary conscious state."

Scott Ward's version: “FUN!”

As Scott hypnotizes his participants, the audience is in awe and astonishment as they transform into the stars of the show right before their very eyes. The Scott Ward show is a unique blend of humor, fantasy, magic, and excitement that has made him a household name.
